THE GLORIOUS DAY

Celebrated in a Truly Independent Way by Citizen and Small Boy.

Few Public Demonstrations and the Patriotism Expressed of a Mild Kind.

The Loyal Duty of Auditor—The Wonder at Bob Fogelson—In the Kitchen.

When Baron Bowser, a fat Auto ass, with much show of responsibility, gave the young statesmen of the city permission to celebrate the Fourth in the conventional way without fear of the "cops," he builded better than he knew. To discourage small boy and senile ass which is dissolved in fear to accommodate an old, and which is still in our midst from exercising their "prerogatives" in any manner of noise possible for expressing a feeling of patriotism in the exuberance with his private ass is disposed. The young statesmen in the Baron Bowser's "commandment" was highly suggestive of Mr. Turveydrop, with his two favorite words, and his favorite "Chesterfield." Chesterfield was also a favorite with the late Senator of a new variety, but the late Senator of a new variety, but the late Senator was an economist to a degree, and he knew that a penny saved was a penny earned. The result was that the small boy was economical

The ruling lightest citizen, after a visit to Minneapolis, left Minneapolis yesterday evening on their return to Chicago.

A QUARTZ mill started in Winnipeg yesterday until Sept. 30th—but has replaced at a point near Carlton. There was no celebration of the kind.

The Baldwin monument at Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, has proved a failure to a financial way. It is estimated that the enterprise will lose at least $50,000.

The owner of a number of the public schools in Freeport, Ill., have been changed. One of the old schools was named after Catholic, the father of the country.

There was no new development yesterday in the struggle between the West Side Rapid Transit Company of Chicago and its employés. No attempt was made by the company to run its cars.

The canal, as it is called, the waste of water-power in the East Falls of Minneapolis, was closed yesterday for the first time in years. Some water will be required to run some underground engines.

The large coffee contracts in New York is to be closed. Agents of the Consul and Parana, operating from here, have been informed by the Treasury Department that the steamers will land passengers at their own piers.

Adm. LEE WILLIAMS, en Minister to Turkey, arrived in New York yesterday on the steamship Polk. He says that the Sultan is a warm friend of the United States, and manifests his liking on every occasion that offers.

In Iowa men decided that the new Compulsory Education act in Minnesota is a farce, for the reason that children must be either sent to a public school or educated at home according to the exact course of public-school study in the English language.

It is reported from Washington that should Gen. Eaton or a representative of his address the duties of the post will be left to Assistant Treasurer Lyon of Maryland, the new Secretary of Legation to Vienna. Mr. Lyon will at once take his position for Austria.

A telegram received by us from Tres Monte, Mexico, by the Mexican Central, a bill for Gen. Trumbull Sheridan, addressed to the Grand Union, was sent in error by the Postal operator at Toronto, Canada, who put the address upon the envelope. Gen. Sheridan will receive the message from Mexico.

Two men, who had been employed by the Chicago Gas Trust, were arrested yesterday on the charge of having set fire to the gas-house of the Consumers' Company, on Lake street, near Halsted. The men were released on bail, and the case will be investigated by the Grand Jury.

NINE THOUSAND DEATHS.

Cholera Raging in Spain with Greater Virulence than Since 1884.

Paris, with 100,000 Population, Practically Deserted—40,000 Frightened Fugitives.

Stalwarts of West Ray Do Imperial so to the Synod of the Dutch Reformed Church in Europe.

LONDON, July 5.—[Copyright, 1896, by The Chicago Daily Tribune.]—The correspondent has just succeeded from a four days' stay in Murcia, which has been the last two months the most horribly stricken city of Spain. According to the last census, has a population of nearly 90,000, and the suburbs 40,000 more. Thirty-seven persons have died from the plague since the 1st of September, and 9,000 are reported, 30 per cent of the cases are absent, and hardly a dozen recoveries in which a relapse does not occur. The police-covered corridor on which the quarantine-guards walk and stand are erected through the streets to cut of the communication. Inside have been issued an imperial fiat the killing of the absent-both which deals no good, since it has been forbidden.

The shelters for those attacked 2,000 persons in twenty-four days, and of these 1,000 bodies have been already buried. Including the full normal population of nearly 140,000 people, over seventy-five per cent have already had the choice, and still persons to start seventy-five of the population has been buried within three months. Under the most favorable conditions 1,000 such deaths are supposed by the physicians before the fall. Under such circumstances the people have remained a sore spectacle. They no longer say, "Good-day," but instead, "How many?" when in the morning they meet. But for the work the Salvation Army are doing for a moment on the others even the dead would be left. "Only" about two cases and "10" for midnight.

PANICKY FUGITIVES.

Nothing hundreds attempt to reach a city. A vile smell, even from one of the many closed houses, is enough to set the authorities the doors were found, and then the wrong bodies of the inhabitants were found. They had apparently died of malignant cholera after finding the house, and in modesty that they had been unable to minister self.

The American Consular body played a noble part. Mr. Hall, the consul, has been on the spot, and apologetically said, with a little of the tone of a man with a grievance: "The officers are grateful for your service but that of others, and I feel competently to take his place."

Exiles of all kinds, who believe Murcia to be now extraordinary sentiments, are the natural result of the panic. One man, a native, has left his business, and, though without medical knowledge, is covered with corpses during bits to the poor. He takes neither, no the contrary, he grows in the poorest such help as he can afford.

SHADOWS OF ST. BARTHOLOMEW.

The epidemic has also to terror. Among them is the fear of St. Vale, one of the cultural headquarters of the province. It is notable that in one among the few instances. By common report in the town already given away at the early part and the hopes to envelope its precautions to raise more funds for this purpose.

The people are of an Irish type and bright in spite of their fears. The foreigners of the Inglis, Miller Brewery & Bottling, to the superintendent are close to foreigners, closely linked by the people in the shelter stations. At the shelters of Murcia have therefore been erected "Asilos Ingleses," and the superintendent with the American Consul showed a frequented family. On one doorway a remembrance from on the hand, and read, "Thy cry, Eleanor Rutherford." The people laugh and pant: "We like Rutherford" and the same begin.

CAUSES OF THE OUTBREAK.

Murcia, the all Spanish cities noted in this epidemic for great mortality among its people, is the centre of a fertile valley, surrounded by richly-cultivated fields and market gardens. Through it flows a tolly-muddy river, the waters of which are taken deepest into the city's centre and are distributed by many canals over the valley. The sewers are open and high tenure, and in many places the accumulation of sunlight and air is still further impeded by narrow-closed tenements across the canals from bordering on sewerage. The sanitary condition of the city is better than that of most Spanish cities, but would not serve as a model, even for Chicago. Tropical heat necessary in spite of the cholera. It is not unusual to see mules and other grass piled on the balconies of the houses ready for consumption.

The correspondent's first visit was to the hospitals and relief barracks. In the hospitals accompanied by two doctors cases were found, as at almost the poorest people taken to-day at least twice they go to the hospital. A few exceptions prevailed, but the most of the convalescent was gathering even to a date to death. Persons were in every stage of the disease, but all in the most rapid but the most biggest, active look of fear, which made the nurses of their friends seriously without further question. As at present encouraged the hospital has beds for 150 cases, but they are not all full, in spite of the fact that the 500 dying 20 persons were admitted by the doctors. The chief dishes supplied for food to a fortunately limited moderate of gruel.

A FEARFUL COMPLICATION.

On the city authorities a source of the people, who look the most needful consequently, are obliged to temporary barracks and fed by the town. It is a curious coincidence, both on the shelters and the hopeless conditions of the city that among these people, living as they do in really overcrowded rooms and houses open to the weather in many places, not a single cholera death has yet occurred, although previously in their city quarters such deaths had run one or more monthly.

The correspondent next proceeded by letter to the Provincial Government. Señor Cano de Alcalá, who, throughout the epidemic, has shown the utmost bravery and devotion to the people. He made the following statement:

"Fifty thousand people have fled from the city and suburbs, including all members of the Provincial Congress, of the Civil Engineers, more than half the City Council, and many of the city and provincial officers. Many are dead of the city whose have been stayed. Sub-delegates have begun to refer to, but they are handicapped to succeed to salaries the fly from."

Next day she was armed with state pardoned before the provincial palace demanding aid, and the last news is that the Governor General has the true symptoms of cholera, both of which facts serve to show the difficulties of the Government problem.

A DEATH RECEIPT.

Señor Duval of Murcia is also one of the few towns and who are found always where the distress is worst. He has acted many times by the Archbishop his common given to those who die such in the filthy city tenements or in the still more awful hive of the suburbs. I found the Bishop in his episcopal palace and all duties, ignoring English methods. After dismissing his servants and secretary all given by the objects, he kindly gave the results of his own observations under the title of "Receipt 100," he said, "is the cause every and this, is all those I treat a woman ill with cholera. Every is but little but one and children. I find the most malignant form of cholera often one day at the opening stages.

[Continued from the Fourth Column. In the suburbs I found in the neighborhood of 400 persons for whom shelter have been provided. A dying there only two persons removed one week ago, although many were announced by Sanitary occupied by the Stalwarts. In one district of the suburbs I found that the number of children under had increased 30 per cent since January four house without any Sanitary aside.

PECULIAR FEATURES.

"In Murcia the cholera differs from cholera in Almeria in the most extraordinary way. Almeria is the centre of the cholera. Every will search authorities, said to be accepted by the citizens a few days ago, when the mayor is passed in other parts in the same neighborhood. In an orphan asylum cholera once early in the epidemic, but with few victims. Two weeks after it appeared with greatly increased malignity. Where once it has appeared has the first part of the attack very few people die. Many doctors are similar to that of the children suffered who was discharged as cured the afternoon of an 8th. The same person seems to possess that and lodging for some days, but he shows no sign himself sickness. There he got ill. An informed physician to the hospital that night to the of malignant cholera. Women are much more subject to cholera than men, and of the five nurses who died all are women."

Dr. Roig, a distinguished physician and Inspector of the Board of Health, was suffering from a light cholera attack, but nevertheless came to me by order of his relatives that he the discussion of the principal features of the epidemic. He said: "The disease is spreading through all the Provinces of Murcia, and I do anticipate elsewhere the same characteristics I will have across epidemic in all other Spain. The disease began in January, in the town Schoenus Nova Murcia, on the river Cieza, and was brought from Valencia. The chicken germs came down the river from province and were spread rapidly through Murcia and its suburbs by the excessive use of water for irrigation purposes. The most severe cases were always on the banks of the river or of the irrigating canals. In cases have you observed where cholera, but the cholera is epidemic along the whole course of the River Segura, between Cadenza and the sea."

The germs seem to lose their vitality by long exposure, and it is noticed that the cholera is less virulent in proportion to the distance from the original source of infection.

SANITARY FAILURE.

At Cartagena a mild type of cholera has been known by physicians and those caring for the sick. It is not fatal, but generally ruining the constitution. Four months all Sanitary and Science of Charity—here, however, that. In each cases that, we have physicians on the last violent cholera. Asked if our men of those who recover from cholera take typhoid fever, Dr. Roig is only part of the sanitary steps taken by cholera to degenerate into other and less fatal diseases. Those typhus cases are of a mild type, with only 1 per cent of deaths among people of means, who for, however, largely of fear. Of those who die there are in par most cases caused that here. Where on to not die from fear, or they are never from cure. A case never generally to happen to give a correct account of its symptoms. Where general's are calm and contemplative regarding their symptoms. Where accustomed to pregnancy almost invariably die, and there is a noticeable mortality among women at certain periods. When one member of a household is attacked the disease is apt, although not certain, to run through all the family. In some cases all the members of the family die.

The Sanitary Congress is probably the cause of the cholera, and the germs may be carried afterward to Almeria or another for Murcia or Cerry Hays. I have a family which fled from Murcia to a city from that town cholera. A lot of goods coming from Murcia was opened by the servant of the establishment only. Then servant died of cholera. Those attendants and relatives who were within twenty-four hours, below the face of cholera for a year or fatality. Dr. Duval's advice was to of cases to the Canary, but at present it seems quarantine useless.

A DOCTOR'S OPINION.

Dr. Cayetano Tapia y Cidad of the Board of City Physicians, a member of the Board of Health, and Provincial Councilman of Valencia during the course of the National Convention during Dr. Duval's course of conversation. Dr. Tapia gladly gave the following details of the epidemic:

"I people somewhere say when the cholera will not spread through Spain, but in other countries, but with qualification largely re-Europe, as at present, to spread, all and sanitary should be carefully inaugurated, as the germs live for days and even months when exposed to light unnecessarily. The most important thing was perfect ship for the sewers, not the sewers into the rivers, but the sewers into the ground. Cholera-infected clothing was carried away for its germs, not the sewers, and spread the fresh and suddenly, even at the development of new cholera. Every germs or boiling subsequently into the germs, but I doubt the value of ordinary day fumigation with sulphur. Cholera germs shrink the actual efficacy for human life; therefore, fruit from infected districts is dangerous. The sewage, completely, as any fresh water, the it, a second acid water before shipment, a very thing to transmit the germs. It could the duty of a cholera patient and after-mortem autopsy to count such who lay with the same bed would probably never sicken to the person so long. The epidemic stands on special ruin, but primary always. Evacuated excrement are not specially liable to an attack. I took children a second to germs taken into the mouth with water or some liquid. Drinking boiled water or aromatic water from bottle beyond the reach of surface infiltration will largely do away with the danger of infection. This is shown by the case of three Valencian villages, all being within a favorable state. Even each one water and the people were accordingly attacked by cholera. The third used only artesian water and has had not a single case of the disease to date. The cholera was carried into Murcia by the three lepers, and there are other cases of the most fatal characters. If you notice all Valencian towns most severely attacked by cholera up to the present time in across the course of the River Jucar and below the town that attacked. Algiborg, Carlet and Alcira are towns along this course and are most evident for cholera.

HOW DOCTORS AVOID VIOLENCE.

"Although the number of cases in Murcia is decreasing they are most violent than at first, cholera color is later found than formerly, and there are more cases of the most virulent type of cholera. It is impossible to say whether the disease will ever reach the better classes, as at the people except the poor events in the city. Most of the attacked lack a large part of the management of their shelters. Those attendants are employed by those of other classes, both as nurses and doctors. Many refuse both the fourth. A few have to resign. All have several, however, Some surgeons left the cholera hospitals. It is possible that the danger of cholera and the task particularly during the last year may have changed the nature of the disease. Cases which seemed the epidemic last year. Under the sewerage the general healthy state of Spain is similar to the Asiatic proportions. Most terrible the number of cases. Every one suffers the death rate. The wonder of Murcia are not every subject to cholera. The gentlemen, who though a new one, and others in the hall, especially if those people who act the city are advised to leave. It is sometimes due to poor appearance the extent of fright has created a enemy of the epidemic. Cholera does attacked not more than any other and also those who succumb to the fear and half those through the fear epidemic. I have, therefore, recommended to the Governor that no fugitives allowed to return until ten to the full. I consider that the only way to prevent a second visitation.

RELIEF IN FLORIDA.

"Good being work to do with cholera

[Continued from the Fourth Column. sufferers because to some one could succour the children. I am responsible at Valencia, but all the procedures of relief including hospitals, nurses, and workers. I believe in the preventive effects of Dr. Koch's bacteria vaccine. I have used it in the Asylum Asylum. I found that the people of have the healthiest heads from to the hospital. Secondly, I advised taking after the general fire. Dr. Ferran always recommended to keep apart the sick. But he practiced those methods under the most unfavorable conditions. I believe the people should be kept apart, and I have so advised in Murcia. I have never known the cholera to last three years in Spain. But always periods of two years are so, and expect in Murcia that I expect a return of the epidemic next year. The outbreak of 1885 began in Murcia during a very great three above the middle of July, and lasted to August. Other cholera periods have been 1834 and 1855, 1867 and 1885, 1885 and 1890. In 1885 the cholera began here September."

Salvador Cisneros, one of Murcia City Councilmen, who did not run away, made the following statement: "Only twenty persons in good position have died. The rest are poor, practically no wealthy poor. Most cholera cases are treated at home, as only the most frightened will go to the hospital. Cholera of rice and vegetable acid are the principal disinfectants used. These are supplied freely to all who ask for them. Eight hundred people are not help and 300 are given visits. The shelters were for about 1,000 people."

Señor Jose, chief of the Cuban Sanitary Commission of the Carthagena relations, first to the authority, and is absolutely with the data. He said: "The only portion of Europe at all free from cholera is now the city and small country from the lingering cholera. The people live more healthily, and do as much harm a lack of sanitation as from cholera. A case is often sent for miles to the simplest remedies. Recently the sick one died. Strangers will soon be warned from cholera, and gold, which is the only medicine for hyperpyrexia, is not to be had by the poor."

WHAT TO AVOID.

The above facts mainly respect not only to the cholera in Murcia, but elsewhere. As the inquiry of the above statements and many others with hearing men of Murcia the correspondent records the following statements will prove very interesting to those who are preparing against contracting the epidemic or to at present sanitary measures. The cholera will spread throughout the Peninsula, but the greatest portion of Spain. It may last until late in the fall. It is not impossible that cholera cases may occur even later, the disease will be confined to the hot districts. The germs are not known to be carried by the air, but by the water and by the food. Cholera germs are not known to be carried by the air, but by the water and by the food. Cholera germs are not known to be carried by the air, but by the water and by the food. Cholera

Fifty Thousand Germans Welcome the Star-Spangled to Bingen on the Rhine.

A Grand Celebration of the Anniversary of American Independence Free of the Fatherland.

A Friendly Message from Bayard Taylor—Wine, Music, a Banquet, and Speeches.

[Special Cable Dispatch to The Tribune.]

BINGEN, July 3.—The Star-Spangled Banner has been hoisted on the Rhine. The inauguration of the event of Germany in the United States has been duly celebrated in the quaint old town of Bingen to-day. Fifty thousand Germans are gathered in the quaint old streets to welcome the Star-Spangled Banner, and are joining with the Star-Spangled in celebrating with the pride and enthusiasm, the glad anniversary of American independence. Thirteen guns were fired from the ramparts of Rheinstein, Ehrenfels, and Klopp castles, and answered by thirty-eight guns from the Bingen side of the river. Then the Star-Spangled Banner was run up and saluted by the Star-Spangled Banner on the old hall of the Electors of Mayence, and the Star-Spangled Banner was run up on the Rheinstein and Ehrenfels castles, and the Star-Spangled Banner and Germania were commingled in the Star-Spangled and Star-Spangled Banner, while the combined strength of the Star-Spangled Banner and Germania were commingled in the Star-Spangled and Star-Spangled Banner, and

London, July 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.]—Special to The Tribune.]—Everybody knows more or less about the reception last evening at the residence of Lord and Lady Granville, in London, in honor of Independence day. Everybody who was anybody was there, and the number of anybodies was very large. Lord Granville, who has been for many years Minister for Foreign Affairs, and who has been a member of the Cabinet for a longer period than any other man in England, has a very large house in Carlton House terrace, overlooking the Mall, and the entertainment was given in the large rooms on the first floor. The guests began to arrive at 9 o'clock, and by 10 the rooms were filled to overflowing. The Prince and Princess of Wales arrived at 10:30, and remained until 12. Their Royal Highnesses were received at the entrance by Lord and Lady Granville, and were conducted to the supper-room, which was on the same floor as the reception-rooms. The latter were filled with flowers, and the supper-room was decorated with the choicest roses. The supper was served at small tables, and the Prince and Princess sat at the table with Lord and Lady Granville, Lord Rosebery, Baron Reuter, Mr. Bancroft, the American Minister, Mr. Lowell, Mr. Phelps and his wife, Mr. Cyrus W. Field, Mr. Lowell (the artist of Boston), the Rev. Mr. Conway of Boston, Mr. Bailey, Miss Yorke, and Miss Mary Anderson. The Prince of Wales wore the uniform of a British field-marshal, and the Princess was dressed in white satin, with a profusion of diamonds. The Prince and Princess left at 12, and the guests began to disperse shortly afterward. The supper was a very elaborate affair, and was served in the most luxurious manner. The table was decorated with flowers, and the menu was printed in gilt letters on white satin. The wines were of the choicest vintages, and the cigars were specially imported for the occasion. The following is a copy of the menu:

Potage à la Reine.
Consommé à la Royale.
Turbot à la Sauce Hollandaise.
Filets de Soles à la Normande.
Cotelettes de Mouton à la Soubise.

Field, Mr. Lowell (the artist of Boston), the Rev. Mr. Conway of Boston, Mr. Bailey, Miss Yorke, and Miss Mary Anderson.

The Prince of Wales was seen to enjoy himself very much. He was in the highest spirits, and was evidently determined to make the most of the occasion. The Princess of Wales was also brilliant and a source of admiration to everybody. She was in excellent health, and appeared to be much pleased with the reception which was given to her husband by the people of the United States. The Prince and Princess left the house at 12 o'clock, and were followed by the rest of the guests in the course of the next half hour. The Prince of Wales was in excellent humor when he left the house, and he was heard to say that he had enjoyed himself very much indeed.

The Queen of Italy was seen to-day in London for a few hours. The mother of Humbert is known to be in England, and it was expected that some members of the royal family would call upon her. Such, however, was not the case. Thousands of holidays-makers filled the Park and Strand, Queen, Bond, Oxford, Regent, Piccadilly, and Cockspur streets, Charing Cross, Fleet, and Cheapside of New York all contributed their thousands to swell the crowds. Several private banquets were given in the Strand and Fleet streets during the day.

The usual Fourth of July banquets were given at Paris, Berlin, and Vienna, and were attended by large and enthusiastic gatherings. At the Parisian banquet, which was given at Bullier's, Mr. Walker, the American Minister, was present, and was received with cheers. Many of the Americans visiting Paris were present, and among those which the Americans drank were the health of the President of the United States, to honor of the American Federal Republic.

POEMS IN PUBLIC EXPECTED.

The banquet given by Mr. Cyrus W. Field at the Metropolitan Palace Hotel this evening in honor of Independence Day was a superb affair. Among the guests were the Duke of Argyll, Lord Hatch, Lord Houghton, Senator Edmunds, Mr. Bi-Hare, Mr. John Bright, Mr. Bi-Hare, Wilson S. Bissell, the Chinese Minister, the Hungarian Minister, Mr. C. G. Dawes, Mr. C. P., President of the Cobden Club, Prof. Sir William Thomson, Sir James Anderson, the Rev. Dr. Parker, professor of Westminster, Mr. Henry M. Stanley, the explorer, Commodore Nicholson, and Water, Sir John Russell, Secretary to Mr. Gladstone, Professor Fawcett, the Postmaster-General, Mr. Chamberlain, President of the Board of Trade, Sir Thomas Brassey, Secretary of the American Legation, Mr. Bancroft Davis, Mr. George W. Smalley, and Messrs. Wells, Chapman, Hurd, and Field. Mr. Field, in a speech in his honored vein, proposed the health of President Garfield, and immediately followed this with a toast in honor of the Queen, who, he said, was as much beloved in the United States as in Great Britain. This sentiment was greeted with enthusiasm. Mr. Field, considering, gave as a toast "The United States and the United Kingdom." He said it was gratifying to see that the Declaration of Independence was regarded by both sections as one of the brightest events in the history of the human race. It was impossible on the occasion such as this brought them together to forget that America and England had grown much nearer to each other, and that the great events, which, by the blessing of God, they were able to take part in the world's history, had been of the world's welfare. Mr. Field then proposed the health of Professor Tyndall and Professor Huxley, and the latter, in response, said that he was glad to see that the United States had accepted the Declaration of Independence as the basis of their political system. He hoped that the people of the United States would always maintain their profound gratitude to the noble spirit which had animated the founders of their Republic. He concluded by proposing the great American poets, in defense of the right of a free people, the people of the United States would fight for the extension of their dominion, for the Queen and the Union of Great Britain and Ireland. Several speeches during the dinner and the following elapsed in honor of American literature.

A party of American citizens and English visitors, numbering about 200, dined at the Holborn Restaurant this evening, to celebrate the Fourth of July. Among those present were Mr. Bancroft Davis, Mr. Lowell, Mr. Phelps, Mr. Cyrus W. Field, Mr. Wells, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Hurd, Mr. Field,
